

The Administrative Appeals Tribunal Act requires that proceedings of the Tribunal be conducted with as little formality and technicality and with as much expedition as the requirements of the Act and a proper consideration of the matter before the Tribunal permits.

The Tribunal is not bound by the rules of evidence and can inform itself in any manner it considers appropriate. Accordingly many people that appear before the Tribunal are unrepresented however legal representation is allowed. At times individuals seek assistance only in preparing their case and then present the case themselves to the Tribunal at the time of hearing.

---

Please note, this Blog is posted in Adelaide, South Australia by Andersons Solicitors. It relates to South Australian legislation. Andersons Solicitors is a medium sized law firm servicing metropolitan Adelaide and regional South Australia across all areas of law for individuals and businesses.